

Supplementary Content: Image Gallery

Images to accompany the American Journal of Archaeology publication:

The Petra Museum: A New Approach to Archaeological Heritage in Jordan

John D.M. Green

Link to this article: <https://doi.org/10.3764/aja.124.2.0333>

Published online 16 March 2020
American Journal of Archaeology Volume 124, Number 2
DOI: 10.3764/ajaonline1242.Green.suppl

This online-only published content is freely available electronically immediately upon publication and can be distributed under the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial License (CC BY-NC). This license allows anyone to reuse, remix, and build upon the content, as long as it is for legal noncommercial purposes; the new work must credit the author, the AJA, and the Archaeological Institute of America.

Images are by the author. Images are not edited by the AJA to the same level as those in the printed article.

FIG. 1. Exterior of the Petra Museum, Wadi Musa, featuring shallow ornamental pool.

FIG. 2. “Foundations of Petra” gallery with visitors and museum staff member.

FIG. 3. Facial reconstruction from the skull of a middle-aged male found in the Window Tomb under the Khazna (the Treasury) in Petra.

FIG. 4. “Nabataean Expressions” gallery.

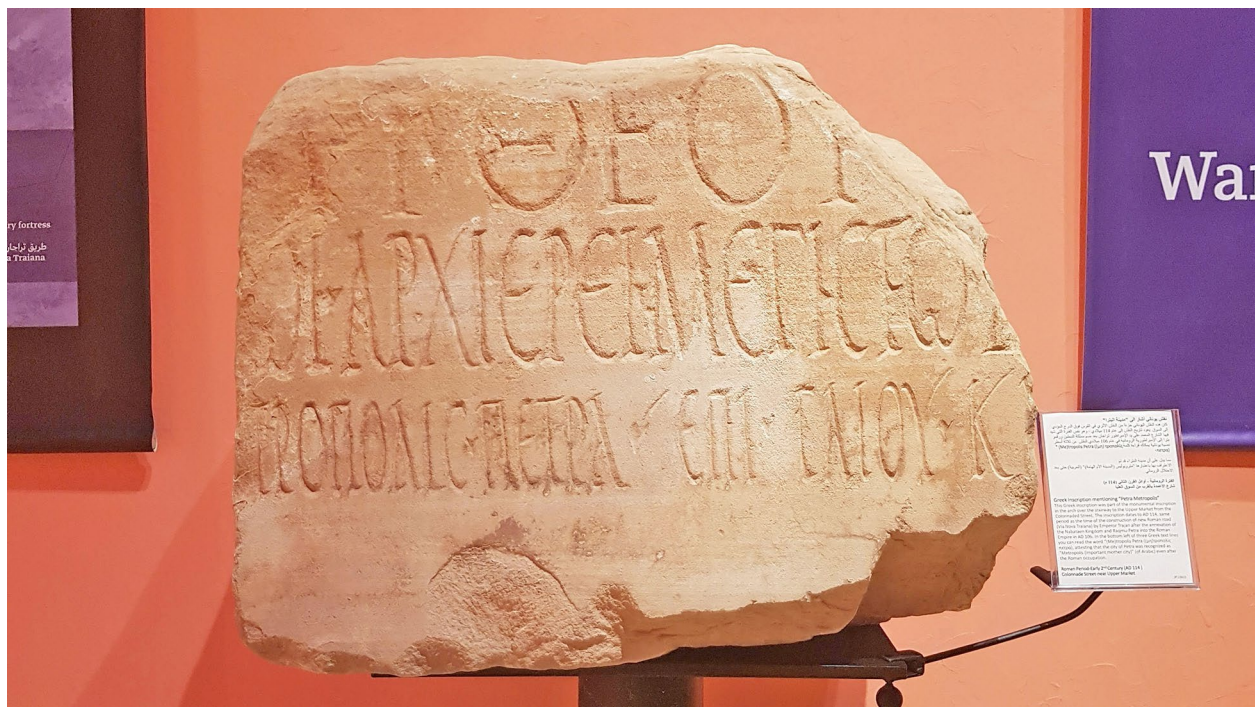

FIG. 5. The second-century CE inscription that mentions the city’s Greek name, “Petra Metropolis,” in the “Waning of Petra” gallery.